

THE GAZETTE.

TUESDAY EVENING, MAY 14.

A CONVENTION OF RAILWAY MANAGERS was held in New York last week, in whose proceedings Messrs. A. S. Buford, Thomas Dodamead, Charles Ellis, P. V. Daniel, C. O. Sanford and John M. Robinson, representatives of various railroads in Virginia, participated. The committee on business made a number of recommendations, among which was one that railway companies fix the amount of responsibility for loss of personal baggage at $300, which was adopted, but which, we need not say, does not alter the law. Another, that passengers be charged for all baggage exceeding one hundred pounds, was also adopted. In reference to the transportation of the mails it was resolved, that the remuneration should be the same that would be required of individuals for similar service. The Convention adjourned to re-assemble at Altoona the third Thursday in July.

MR. WILSON'S THREAT OF CONFISCATION.—The New York Times says:

"It would be a very mean and contemptible act for a southern man to turn another out of his employment for not voting as he might wish him to do; but it would not be much meaner than it is for a northern man to do the same thing. Yet we have reason to suspect that this, or something very like it, is done quite often by northern men, and that, without subjecting themselves to any such threat as that uttered by Mr. Wilson."
